

Where to watch birds...

Pair of European rollers - © E. Cazy - Aude Nature

in the Narbonnaise regional Nature Park?

With its wild beaches, coastal lagoons, former saltpans, agricultural plains, scrubby Mediterranean vegetation known as "garrigue", limestone cliffs and rocky outcrops, the Narbonnaise regional Nature Park encompasses an internationally renowned diversity of landscapes, whilst also boasting a very rich cultural heritage.

Throughout the year, these varied biotopes are home to one of France's richest ranges of birdlife, with nearly 400 out of the 950 species of birds observed in Western Europe present in the park, either as residents, seasonal visitors or occasional visitors. Close to a third of the bird species found here are protected, either nationally or internationally.

Enjoy exceptional bird watching opportunities, many other outdoor activities, plus great food and wine, in the Narbonnaise regional Nature Park, one of Europe's newest nature holiday destinations!

What else to see and do in the

The Narbonnaise regional Nature Park on the Mediterranean, epitomises the very essence of the Mediterranean!

Made up of a string of coastal lagoons (Pissevache, Bages-Sigean, Gruissan and La Palme) along the Mediterranean coast and bordered to the west by limestone hills, the park encompasses 21 towns and villages of the Aude county in the Languedoc Roussillon region of southern France. It is home to one of the greatest ranges of biodiversity to be found in any of the protected natural sites around the Mediterranean.

Formed in 2003, the “young” Narbonnaise regional Nature Park is responsible for protecting and promoting this exceptional area of natural heritage for the benefit of all, whilst at the same time helping to ensure that economic development progresses in harmony with it.

Welcome to the Narbonnaise regional Nature Park on the Mediterranean!

Natural history and cultural heritage

Free guided activities are available throughout the year including: botany, entomology, arts and crafts, traditional skills (boat building, dry-stone walling, etc.), guided nature walks, visits to historic sites... These are led by a network of passionate guides, who all work closely with the park. See: www.parc-naturel-narbonnaise.fr for the current programme of guided activities.

Walking & cycling

The territory covered by the park offers a wide choice of hill and coastal walking. Around the craggy headland of La Clape, in the dramatic limestone landscapes of the Corbières Maritimes, on the boardwalks around the coastal lagoons, or along the cliffs at Leucate. Choose from day walks or longer circuits (Cathar Way, Golfe Antique...).

Cyclists will enjoy the many quiet back roads and the towpath along the Canal de la Robine, which crosses the coastal lagoon of Bages-Sigean, whilst mountain bikers may prefer the forestry tracks.

Other outdoor activities

The coast and its lagoons are one of Europe's hotspots for water sports, whilst the craggy limestone landscapes offer vertical fun for climbers and pot-holers alike. There are plenty of opportunities for horse riding and several marine reserves along the coast offer good diving.

Historic sites and museums

Ancient amphora and remains of settlements and villas are all testament to the rich heritage left here by the Romans. Circular, fortified villages and the spectacular Cistercian abbey at Fontfroide bear witness to the middle ages, and there are many village churches, old windmills and lime-kilns with interesting stories to tell.

Mediterranean cuisine and wine

The local high-quality, full-bodied wines are a perfect match for the superb Mediterranean cuisine! Enjoy local olives, fish, shellfish, oysters, eels, goat and ewe's milk cheeses and delicious fruit amongst many other mouth-watering delights.

The Pissegache lagoon (Fleury d'Aude)

An area of brackish water surrounded by salt marsh, this site attracts large numbers of water birds all year round and occasionally, in the winter, a few large raptors.

The Aude River Plain (Fleury d'Aude)

Along the banks of the Aude river, the patchwork of meadows, vines and hedges hosts a collection of the most colourful and unusual of Mediterranean birds.
